

There are seven types of objects. For each type, we examine a report or form and show how to model that report or form with an object. Three new terms are used in this section. A single-value attribute is an attribute whose cardinality is 1. A multi-value attribute is one whose maximum cardinality is greater than 1. And a nonobject attribute is a simple or group attribute.