

Entities can be associated with one another in relationships. The E-R model contains both relationship classes and relationship instances. Relationship classes are associations among entity classes, and relationship instances are associations among entity instances. Relationships can have attributes.